Briefly

Sex assault classes

Preventing sexual assault will be the topic of a series of workshops in November led by Linda Doerge, supervisor of public safety for the Granite City Campus of Belleville Area College.

The sexual assault awareness workshops will include tips on recognizing the different types of rapists, being prepared and making a plan of safety. The workshop also will include a short film on how to avoid sexual assault.

"The aim of the workshop is teaching people how to avoid dangerous situations," Doerge said.

The workshops are free and open to the public. The workshops are scheduled for:

Wednesday, Nov. 9, 6 to 7 p.m., Granite City Campus, 4950 Maryville Road.

Venice conferences

Venice Public School will hold its parent-teacher conferences in the high school gym on Thursday, Nov. 17. This will be conducted in two sessions. The first session will be held from noon to 3 p.m.; the second from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. There will be no school for students that Thursday.

Child care will be provided by the Venice High School Student Council. Otherwise, students are not allowed in the gym. All parents are encouraged to attend.

Society to meet

The public is invited to the annual fall meeting of the Madison County Historical Society from 2:30 to 4 p.m. Sunday at the Edwardsville First Presbyterian Church. Located at 237 N. Kansas St., the church is celebrating the 175th anniversary of its founding in 1819 by the Rev. Salmon Giddings. Dr. John Ades, Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville professor emeritus, will discuss the church's history.

Van, woman taken at gunpoint from ATM

Granite City police on Wednesday were utilizing surveillance photographs to track down four men who allegedly hijacked a van in Granite City and stole several hundred dollars from the female driver. Cynthia Shands, 32, of the 2100 block of Adams Street, told police that four men — two of them wielding handguns and all of them wearing nylon stockings over their heads — forced her to the rear of her blue 1992 Chevrolet Safari van at about 6:45 p.m. Tuesday while she was attempting to make a deposit at an automated teller machine at the Granite City Steel Credit Union on 20th Street near Lee Avenue.

The men then took Shands to a remote area on Slough Road just north of Interstate 270, made her sit on a rock facing the levee, and left in the van.

Shands was not physically harmed. Police later recovered the van in the 2400 block of East 25th Street, Assistant Police Chief Kip Pomeroy said.

A surveillance camera at the credit union captured the events — including the suspects — on film. Police were not releasing the photographs on Wednesday.

"The victim was mostly focusing on the guns, which is understandable. The photographs are very helpful in identifying the suspects," Pomeroy said.

Shands, an employee of a St. Louis law firm, told police that a man approached her driver's side window, pointed a silver handgun at her and told her to "move over" as she was making a deposit at the ATM. As she moved over toward the passenger side of the van, she saw another man at the passenger-side door wielding a gun.

Shands moved to the rear of the van, where one of the four men covered her face and sat on top of her. On the way to a remote spot near Interstate 270 and Highway 2, one of the men asked Shands

Four honored for bravery during shooting

By Bob Slate

Three Granite City police officers and a citizen were recently honored by the General George Rogers Clark Chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution for their part in thwarting a crazed gunman in the busy Nameoki Village Shopping Center in Granite City last April.

Kristopher Curtis, of Granite

City, received a heroism award from the organization for shielding a young child from the gunman.

PATROLMEN JOE MANGIARACINO, Dennis

Shemwell and Sgt. Rich Miller all received law enforcement awards.

The awards were presented Oct. 20 at the monthly meeting of the Madison County Police Association.

"WHEN THE GUNMAN burst into Dave's Movies and More after wounding two people, most all of the employees and customers fled from the store in fear. But Kristopher Curtis remained behind to protect a young child. Mr. Curtis shielded the child from the gunman and tried to convince the gunman to give up his weapon. It is for this act of bravery that the Sons of the American Revolution presents the SAR Heroism Award to Kristopher Curtis," said M. Joseph Hill, SAR president.

"THE ENCOUNTER AT the shopping center could have been much worse had it not been for the rapid response of the Granite City police. Three patrol cars responded to the emergency. One patrol car apparently arrived at the scene slightly before the others and a gun battle ensued between one officer and the gunman. As the gunman continued to fire wildly, other patrol cars and two more patrolmen arrived and the shooting continued on the open parking lot. During the gun battle, the subject was wounded and subsequently died.

"These police officers exhibited remarkable devotion to duty when they disregarded their own safety and aggressively attempted to protect others from serious injury," Hill said.

"It is for these acts of bravery that the Sons of the American Revolution presents the SAR Law Enforcement Award to Patrolman Joe Mangiaracino, to Sgt. Rich Miller, and to Patrolman Dennis Shemwell," Hill said.

City approves contract for clerical workers

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

After working for more than two years without an agreement with the city, clerical workers in Granite City Hall and at the police station finally have a contract.

On Tuesday, the Granite City Council unanimously approved a contract with the city's white collar workers, members of American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees Local 3405.

The four-year pact, which runs from May 1, 1992 to April 30, 1996, includes a provision for raises of three percent in each of the first two years and of two percent in the final two years for most employees.

Dispatchers at the police station will receive a seven percent wage increase effective May 1 of next year. The annual increase for dispatchers is said to bring their wages more in line with dispatchers at other law enforcement agencies in the area.

Wages in 1995-96 will range from a low starting salary for a general clerk of about $15,879 to a high of about $26,142 for a payroll supervisor computer operator with 15 years of experience.

Sources said the members of the bargaining unit approved the agreement last week by a narrow three-vote margin. The contract does not include a provision for random drug testing. Mayor Ron Selph unilaterally implemented a random drug testing policy for the clerical employees — and his appointed workers — after contract negotiations with the white-collar union on the issue were declared at an impasse.

AFSCME then asked for a federal court injunction barring implementation of the random testing policy. The policy was dropped for the clerical workers — but not for the mayor's appointees — in a negotiated settlement.

Firefighters also have no random drug testing policy. While the city attempted to negotiate a random drug testing policy at the fire station, an arbitrator recently shot down the city's proposal. Firefighters may be tested upon reasonable suspicion that they are impaired.

Neither street department workers nor operating engineers at the Wastewater Treatment Plant must submit to random drug testing. Employees in the city's sanitation department agreed to submit to random drug testing earlier this year.

Sworn officers in the police department voluntarily implemented a random drug testing policy several years ago. On Tuesday night, the City Council rewarded those officers by authorizing a $250 bonus for any employee whose name is selected at random and whose test results are negative.

Selph recommended the bonuses, which were approved unanimously by the council — even though some aldermen seemed reluctant.

"It is a state statute that we have to offer incentives to people just to keep their health," said Alderman Casper Skubiah.

Selph said that the city isn't required to offer the incentives, but that he thinks positive reinforcement is a good method of motivation.

"This is just to recognize that these good, dedicated employees have volunteered," Selph said.

Alderman Sandy Crites said positive reinforcement is an excellent idea, especially since "some (workers) won't voluntarily consent to drug tests."

Alderman Dan Partney said that employees in the private sector are tested at random and lose their jobs if they fail.

"Possibly we should look seriously into contracting out more of our city services so we don't have to be in a situation where we have to reward people just for doing their job," Partney said.

Pontoon Board to examine TIF plan

By Hiley Schulte
Staff writer

The Pontoon Beach Board of Trustees plans to pass a resolution to explore the possibilities of a developer's request for a Tax Increment Financing district for a car dealership in Pontoon Beach at Tuesday's regular meeting.

Tuesday evening the board met with developers to learn more about the TIF district project, which was requested last week.

Taxes on land designated as a TIF district are frozen for up to 21 years, and the money from those taxes goes to pay back the bonds on the land, said Clerk Lou Whitsett last week.

The project involves 20 acres of land on the southwest corner of Highway 111 and Interstate 270. Emmert Wyss owns the land and backs the project.

Chuck Andrews, who has been working on the project since May of this year, said Chrysler Corporation has requested permission to relocate Granite City's Don Johnston Chrysler-Dodge to the land in Pontoon Beach.

Andrews said the $11 million dollar project would involve 20 acres at first, with the option for additional acreage.

Ron Roth, an attorney representing Johnston and the developers, spoke of four possible phases to the project at Tuesday's meeting. The first would involve just the southwest corner with Johnston's dealership and a road and utilities for the site.

Additional phases would include land extending to the edge of Mitchell.

"But, in order for anything further to develop, we need a statement from the village in favor of the TIF," said Roth.

"I feel the auto dealership is a good idea for the village, because of sales and real estate taxes, and for the developers," said Wyss.

"It is specifically designed to benefit the city and the developers," said Roth.

Trustee Mike Mack noted that the development would include no residential property at all.

"TIF bonds are not paid out of the general revenue of Pontoon Beach. They would be paid solely

News in review

News in review provides a summary of some of the past week's stories. This column is designed for out-of-town readers who do not receive the Sunday and Wednesday Press-Record Journals.

Unprecedented probe sought

The attorney for a Granite City police officer indicted for allegedly cheating on a promotion examination, which charges were later dropped, is asking a judge for permission to question members of the grand jury that indicted his client in January 1988.

But Madison County State's Attorney Bill Haine says the request is unprecedented and — if granted — would have "a chilling effect" on future potential jurors.

Attorney Mel Hutnick of Belleville, representing police Sgt. David Rosenberg, filed a motion Oct. 11 asking St. Clair County Circuit Judge Jan Flass for permission to depose members of a grand jury that indicted Rosenberg, Sgt. Jim Reader and then-Police Commissioner Dan Partney in January 1988 for their alleged part in "fixing" a police department promotion examination in 1985.

Charges against Rosenberg, Reader and Partney were dropped in August 1988 due to lack of evidence.

Pro wrestler opens teen center

Frank Haynes, a St. Louis professional wrestler known as "Frankie D," has opened a new youth center in Granite City in an attempt to "get the kids off the streets."

The new center, which is named The Basement, will hold "Saturday Night Live" for kids ages 13 to 18 from 7 to 10 p.m. on Saturday nights at the Pentecostal Tabernacle Church, 2635 Missouri Ave. Adult supervision is provided.

Students push for bond passage

Forty-five students utilized a recent beautiful fall Saturday to distribute brochures with information about the Granite City School District bond issue on the Nov. 8 ballot.

The school district is asking voters to approve a $12 million bond issue on the Nov. 8 ballot. The proceeds from the bond issue which will not require a tax increase but would authorize the continuation of a 34-cent tax rate to repay the debt over a 20-year period — are to be used to renovate the 70-year-old Granite City High School building.

The district will conduct and open house with tours of the high school building Thursday night beginning at 7 p.m. At 8 p.m., a public question and answer session will be held at the high school. Representatives of the school district and of Huff Architectural Group — the firm that designed the renovation project — will be on hand to answer questions from the public.

ASF celebrates 100 years

American Steel Foundries celebrated the 100th anniversary of its Granite City plant last weekend.

And Norman Berg, president of ASF, said any success the company has achieved can be attributed to its workers.

"Reaching the century mark is certainly an honor that few plants will achieve. We have been able to reach that mark because of the commitment and dedication of employees who believed in themselves, the products they manufactured and this plant," Berg said.

Layoff rumors are confirmed

Rumors of a corporate-wide layoff of salaried, non-union employees at National Steel Corp. were confirmed last week by a memo from President and Chief Operating Officer V. John Goodwin.

"We recognize that reducing costs to make National competitive and ensure its survival requires difficult and painful steps. However, these steps are necessary and are intended to make National competitive, profitable and financially strong for our long-term future," Goodwin wrote in the memo, distributed to all non-represented employees last week.

While the memo does not specify how many or which employees will be severed from employment, it does say that the severance package will not include a "pension window" or any other form of enhanced early retirement benefit.

Residents give EPA an earful

A U.S. Environmental Protection Agency plan to remove soil contaminated with lead from about 1,600 residential properties in Granite City, Madison and Venice drew sharp reactions from residents last week.

While some residents — like Paul Wilson — want contaminated soil removed from their yards immediately, others, — like Michael Andrea — want EPA to address a 290,000-ton lead scrap pile and lead paint in homes before attacking residents' soils. Still others — like Craig Tarpo — have questions about how the EPA came up with its proposed remedy.

Warriors one step from state

Shawn Petroski scored his 38th goal of the season and Matt Little tallied what proved to be the winning goal Saturday as Granite City High School defeated Collinsville in the soccer sectional final at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

On Tuesday, the Warriors played Springfield for the right to advance to this weekend's state tournament.

Churchich facing Vahle in sheriff race

Recent convictions in the worst mass murder in Madison County history and a planned $5.5 million expansion of the County Jail are among the achievements Sheriff Bob Churchich is touting in his reelection bid against Republican challenger Jack Vahle.

"I've earned my stripes, as they say, and it's going to take an experienced person to oversee the jail expansion. This will probably be the major project for the next administration and you don't want somebody untested in there, a rookie," said Churchich, a former Alton police officer and Hartford police chief who is running for his third four-year term as sheriff.

Vahle, however, said Churchich has injected politics into the sheriff's department and is ignoring crime prevention efforts that could cut down on the number of calls deputies must answer.

"The sheriff's department now basically operates on the basis of when there's a crime they go out and start reacting to it. It's too late once the crime has been committed. We need crime prevention programs," said Vahle, a 43-year-old Godfrey resident who works for the Missouri Department of Public Safety.

Churchich, 61, said the Oct. 1 convictions of Michael Coleman and Remon Williams for the murders of five men in a trailer park near Madison on Nov. 17, 1993, is the type of law enforcement residents have become accustomed to.

Bob Churchich

"When these things happen, the people of Madison County demand justice, and rightfully so. I am committed to making sure they get the justice that's coming to them," the sheriff said.

Vahle said the department should concentrate on preventing crime by getting the schools involved in teaching students how not to become crime victims.

In addition, Vahle said he would institute a program similar to the "scared straight" programs used in some cities to show children what they may have to go through in prison if they commit crimes. The program usually involves letting prison inmates lecture children about what the prison environment is like.

However, Vahle said he would apply the program to all juveniles, not just those who have had run-ins with the law, as is the case with most "scared straight" programs around the county.

"We should use it to start them out on the right foot," Vahle said.

A force of between 100 and 1,000 reserve deputies would also be raised by Vahle to augment the regular force of 75 full-time deputies under Vahle's plan.

"We could use them around the schools for traffic control after games and special events, and for other minor operations that really shouldn't distract regular deputies," Vahle said, adding that the reserve deputies would be part-time volunteers.

"I want to keep the deputies on the road," he said.

County officials recently approved a $5.5 million expansion of the County Jail. The plan, which Churchich has been pushing for more than two years, calls for 90 new beds, a new roof and additional electronic surveillance equipment.

Parties spend more than $ 110,000 on 110th District congressional race

Illinois House Democratic and Republican state campaign committees have poured more than $100,000 into the hotly contested 110th District race between Rep. Ron Stephens of Troy, a Republican, and Democrat Robert Daiber of Marine.

The race is a target in the parties' struggle for control of the House and is the most expensive area race in the Nov. 8 election.

It's a known fact statewide this has been a targeted race by both the Republicans and Democrats," Daiber said. "Because of the closeness of the last election, we think we can win it, and Republicans are trying to hold the seat."

In 1992, Daiber lost to Stephens by 290 votes in an election that drew more than 43,000 voters.

Reports on campaign contributions filed this week at the State Board of Elections also indicated the only contested state Senate race in the area, between incumbent Evelyn Bowles, D-Edwardsville, and Republican challenger David Tanyzus of Collinsville, drew the least money.

In the race to succeed retiring House Majority Leader Jim McPike, D-Alton, in the 111th District, Democrat Steve Davis continued to amass a war chest substantially richer than the Republican opponent Ted Prehn.

In the 110th, Board of Elections reports showed a total of $50,000 in contributions to Daiber from the Illinois House Democratic Majority Committee, part of the state Democratic party. The contributions were primarily in-kind help through staff salaries, postage, printing and other costs.

The last itemized contribution from the state organization was $25,050 Saturday.

Also through Saturday, a total of $49,713 in primarily in-kind contributions had been pumped into Stephens' campaign by the House Republican Campaign Committee and House Republican Lee Daniels of Elmhurst.

The help from the state party organization "means a great deal, and in a race that is of this magnitude, we could not raise the funds locally without party help," Daiber said.

He also had received more than $40,000 in other contributions, particularly from labor unions, political action committees and law firms.

Since July 1, Daiber's committee has reported more than $127,000 in campaign contributions.

"We're just trying to keep up with them," Stephens said. "When they do something, we try to stay even. They just went on cable TV, so we went on cable TV."

State reports list more than $108,000 in contributions to Stephens' campaign since July 1, the most recent being $36,794 filed last Saturday from the House Republican Campaign Committee.

Other big contributions are primarily from business groups, with the Illinois Manufacturing Association kicking in $4,000.

Meanwhile, Davis reported about $25,000 in contributions since July 1, on top of a previous balance of $36,000. His Republican opponent, Prehn, listed about $21,000 in contributions for the same period, with the largest being $4,235 from the Madison County Republican Central Committee, followed by $1,000 from Duncan Foundry in Alton. Prehn's balance July 1 was $981.

The 58th District Senate race is a low-budget affair compared with the House races. Bowles' biggest contributions were $2,000 each from the Illinois Trial Lawyer and United Auto Workers, while Tanyzus' biggest donation, $550, came from the Madison County Republican Central Committee.

Wellness Center announces additions, improvements

The Wellness Center, 2103 Iowa St., next to St. Elizabeth Medical Center, has recently made some changes and additions to its facility.

Now, more than ever, "The Wellness Center is more than just a gym. In addition to the usual weights, exercise bikes and other workout equipment usually found in a fitness facility, The Wellness Center offers programs encouraging participation to lead a healthy lifestyle.

Lifestyle enrichment classes such as smoking cessation, stress management and nutrition education are ongoing at The Wellness Center. On-site health fairs, wellness assessments, cholesterol screenings and computerized health risk appraisals are also routine.

For those who like to walk or jog, The Wellness Center also features the only indoor, low-impact track in the area. Cybex Eagle exercise machines, free weights, Air-dyne and Lifecycle exercise bikes, stair-climbers, rowers, treadmills and personalized training programs are all features of The Wellness Center.

A new, eight-week session of aerobics, stretching and "Fitness Over 50" classes, as well as "Walking for Fun and Fitness," begins the week of Nov. 7.

Four aerobics classes are offered including low impact step aerobics, from 6:30 to 7:30 Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings.

Step aerobics and high-intensity, low- and high-impact aerobics is offered from 5 to 6 p.m. Monday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Low-impact, low intensity aerobics classes are offered from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

Advanced step, high-intensity, high-impact aerobics classes meet from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday and from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m. Friday.

Stretching classes are offered from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday, and "Fitness Over 50" from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. Tuesday and Thursday.

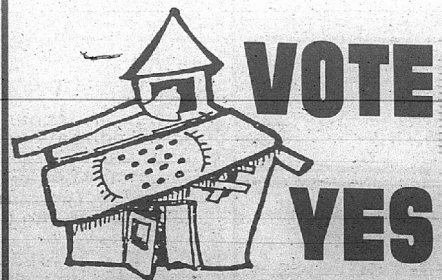

Pre-registration is required for all classes.

A new feature, massages, are offered every Tuesday from 1 to 9 p.m. and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. The cost is $40 for a one-hour, full-body massage, and $15 for a 20-minute chair massage. Appointments must be made one day in advance.

Self Defense classes are offered from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. every Tuesday and cost $27.50 for four weeks.

Memberships are available for individuals, couples or entire families. A one-year single membership costs $210, or $75 per quarter. Couple memberships are available for $315 annually or $110 quarterly, and family memberships are $440 a year or $150 every three months.

MetroLink grabs leaders' attention

Second of a five-part series:
Ten million light-rail riders in St. Louis have caught the attention of Metro-East leaders, who now want the mass transit system to come here.

MetroLink, which runs for 18 miles from Lambert St. Louis International Airport to downtown East St. Louis, has averaged about 27,000 riders per day since it first left the station in July 1993. That's 10 times higher than projections by Agency, operator of the line.

Now a move is afoot to bring a MetroLink extension into Madison County. County Board Chairman Nelson Hagenaue said he wants the Madison County Transit District to investigate whether existing rail lines can be used for light rail or commuter rail.

Light rail will also be a major focus of a 20-year master plan the Transit District will conduct in the next year. Transit District Chairman Jerry Kane said light rail will be an important part of the district's long-range plans.

Bi-State had projected MetroLink would have about 4.5 million riders from July 31, 1993, through August. The actual number was about 10 million.

The system's popularity and early staying power has MetroLink naysayers shaking their heads. Critics have said the system does not go where people are and want to go, particularly the suburbs in west St. Louis County, home to many professionals who commute to work in downtown St. Louis.

However, the line's 18 stops including the airport, Busch Stadium, the Kiel Center and Union Station, are popular with the public. From Union Station, the route snakes west, below and above ground, to the Central West End, Barnes Hospital, Forest Park, Washington University, the University of Missouri at St. Louis and to Lambert's main terminal.

The route goes through some once-thriving heavy industrial areas of the city and county that need the redevelopment push that a light-rail line can provide. Many of those areas are similar to declining heavy industry areas in Madison County that could also use a redevelopment push.

But longtime critic Bill Bandle of Manchester, Mo., categorized MetroLink as an "entertainment line that does not serve its original purpose."

"I've never opposed the idea of MetroLink, only the route," Bandle said. "It was originally intended to be a people mover. But this is an entertainment thing. People use it to go to Busch Stadium or Forest Park or to the Kiel (Center) to see (Frank) Sinatra."

"The only people who ride it are people who live around it. People in north, south and west (St. Louis) county don't have access to it. Going to Belleville first would have been a great idea. All you have to do is look at the bridges (in downtown St. Louis) at night to see that."

Construction on extensions to Belleville and St. Charles, Mo., is scheduled to begin this decade and voters in St. Louis city and county approved tax hikes in August to help operate the current system.

Approval in August of Proposition M, which increased the sales taxes in St. Louis city and county by a quarter of a cent, "is a clear mandate from the citizens to us to get busy," Leary said. The tax will generate about $35 million a year for Bi-State to help operate the current system.

Bandle criticized politicians and MetroLink organizers for selling the public on the idea in the mid-1980s by allegedly claiming the line would support itself. "They said there would be no tax increases. They knew that wasn't true," Bandle said.

Additional MetroLink extensions are planned to Clayton, Mo., and north, south and west St. Louis County. However, there is no plan at this time to build an extension to Madison County.

The $351 million construction of the MetroLink system was wholly funded by the federal government. Local contributions were made in the form of infrastructure, such as existing tunnels and bridges.

Generating local funding is vital to getting extensions. U.S. Rep. Dick Durbin of Springfield said. Durbin, a member of the House Appropriations Committee's transportation subcommittee, played a key role in securing funds for MetroLink.

"Nobody else will have the infrastructure to give what St. Louis did," he said. "You have to come up with a local share of money."

Obtaining rights of way will be costly and time consuming, Bandle said.

"With the routes they have planned, they're going to have a hell of a time getting it without litigation. Those routes go through towns with residential areas. They'll need to buy out a lot of people."

"It's fine what they have planned, but you're not going to live to see it."

MetroLink proponents say the system's main draws are safety, efficiency and affordability. "For the first time in modern history (in the St. Louis area), we have an alternative form of transportation that's affordable and has speed and comfort," East-West Gateway Coordinating Council Executive Director Les Serman said.

Durbin, who was born and raised in East St. Louis, said people are comfortable with going to the station in his hometown, a high-rise city.

"People who used to drive miles out of their way to avoid East St. Louis are now parking their cars there," he said. "In one year, we've had to triple the size of the MetroLink parking lot (on Missouri Avenue)."

Supervisor: 'Best thing to happen here in a long time'

Golden Eagle resident Jim McCauley believes MetroLink was hatched from a golden egg. "It's just super. It's about 20 years late, but things take time. It's a sparkling operation," he said.

The Calhoun County resident should know. As a contract supervisor for the Bi-State Development Agency, he oversees the daily cleaning of MetroLink passenger cars, stations and rights of way.

He rises at 3 a.m. workdays to drive to the MetroLink station at North Hanley Road and Interstate 70 in St. Louis County, where he begins his white-glove inspections of the system's 18 stops.

"I get there about 4 in the morning and I'm usually done by 6:15 (a.m.). I look them over good," McCauley said.

MetroLink usually shuts down from 2 to 4:30 a.m., so tracks and trains can be maintained. However, cleaning crews work on MetroLink and its facilities from 9 p.m. to 6 a.m. Tasks include emptying trash cans, picking up trash around terminals and cleaning restrooms. They also do windows.

"It's just like a restaurant. If the windows are clean and the doors are clean, you've got a pretty good idea what's inside," he said.

Yes to school renovations

TO THE EDITOR:

On Nov. 8, we have an opportunity to help our community and the Granite City School District by voting "yes" to renovate the high school. This grand old building on the corner of Madison Avenue and Nameoki Road has been a focal point for our community school district for more than 70 years.

In order for the high school to serve another 70 years, it must have extensive repairs that will modernize it and technologically allow it to serve our community well into the 21st Century.

There are several reasons why I feel you should support this issue. First, it will not cost you, the taxpayer, any additional tax dollars. The cost of the renovation will come from an extension of bonds already in existence. By voting "yes," you are simply allowing the school district to again sell these bonds to generate money for this project.

Secondly, our schools are a selling point for our community. When trying to attract new residents or businesses the first question asked is "How good are your schools?" If our schools are strong, our community will be strong. The value of our property is directly related to our schools. Poor school system, poor property value; strong school system, high property value.

Granite City School District has a noted reputation as a quality school district. In order for us to compete with neighboring communities for growth and development, we must maintain that reputation. A "yes" vote will go a long way to ensure that.

Thirdly, we have a moral obligation to future generations to maintain a quality school district. Like many of you, I'm a graduate of Granite City High School. Because of the outstanding education I received in this school system, I was able to further my education. By voting "yes," we can ensure future generations that the legacy of quality education with modern facilities will continue.

Again, we are at a crossroad in this community. By passing this referendum, we will send a message to other communities in southwestern Illinois that we are a progressive, caring community; that we realize the importance of keeping our schools strong; and that we welcome growth and development.

Remember, growth and development will ultimately lead to easing the tax burden on individual residents. Let's all help send this message by voting "yes" on Nov. 8.

Employees support her

TO THE EDITOR:

As employees of the Madison County Clerk's office, we would like to let the taxpayers of Madison County know what a superb job Debbie Salich has done since she was sworn in as county clerk in May.

Not only does Debbie have a great deal of enthusiasm to learn the procedures of the office inside and out, she has also brought with her the true spirit of a team leader. Debbie has taken the time to get to know each of her employees on a one-to-one basis and she has been very open to any suggestions which would improve our service to the public.

Since May, Debbie has taken every effort to save the taxpayers' money. Instead of disposing of thousands of voter registration cards, Debbie used the on-hand stock and only ordered what was necessary to complete our mass voter registration mailing. She has also saved hundreds of dollars in printing costs by using address labels created on our office computers in order to utilize all pre-printed office supplies.

Debbie is also in the process of automating areas of the office which have been handled manually for many years (especially Assumed Name Certificates and Delinquent Property Tax Redemptions). These changes will allow us to serve the public in a more timely and efficient manner.

Debbie has proven herself as a competent and efficient county clerk over the past six months; therefore, we would like to ask for your support to elect Debbie Salich as Madison County Clerk on Tuesday, Nov. 8.

He's proud of students

TO THE EDITOR:

Last Saturday I had the opportunity and pleasure to spend the morning with a group of our high school students. On a beautiful fall morning, when I am sure they would rather have been at home or with friends, 48 young men and women gathered to pass literature in support of the high school renovation project.

I was very proud of the effort put forth by this fine group of students. In a little over three hours they handed out nearly 15,000 brochures. They proved to me just how important this bond issue is to them and reminded me why passage of this bond issue and the subsequent remodeling project is imperative to our community. In this day and age, we need to concentrate on the negative things we hear about our young people while we sometimes overlook the good things they do.

I would like to commend the group of students who gave of their time and energies to assist in this endeavor. In speaking with some of the students Saturday, they indicated that they wanted to help me make the high school a better place for their younger brothers and sisters to attend.

I would challenge all members of our community to realize that supporting this bond issue is a gift to our children and grandchildren. Our kids believe that this issue is important enough to go out and work for.

I would ask our citizens to reward their effort by going to the polls in record numbers and showing these kids how important it is to us. Please support the proposition to restore and renovate Granite City High School on Nov. 8.

STEVE BALEN, Superintendent of Schools

Vote no on county exec

TO THE EDITOR:

The voters of Madison County are being asked on Nov. 8 to make a radical change in the form of government at the county level. The proposal on the ballot would create an "executive" form of government. I urge all voters to vote "NO."

There is nothing new about this form of government; it has been around and it has been tried — Will County. There is one principal drawback and that is enough: It concentrates a tremendous amount of power in the hands of one individual.

If we are going to protect any freedoms that exist now, we must not concentrate power in the hands of anyone. In fact, I would like to go the other way and take some of the executive power away from the executives that we have at the state and federal levels.

That is one of the principal lessons of our American history.

I hope you feel likewise. Please vote "NO."

DICK WORTHEN, Alton

Moran supporter urges 'yes'

TO THE EDITOR:

I have been acquainted with George Moran Jr. all of my childhood and adult life. He is one of the most understanding, kind, and personable I have ever known. He has always displayed a sense of loyalty and fairness.

I have watched him mature into one of the finest judges of the Third Judicial Circuit. I would like to take this opportunity to encourage all of my friends to vote "yes" by punching 161 in favor of his retention in the upcoming election.

Meeting unsinkable Debbie Reynolds

Debbie Reynolds is "still here" and "ain't down yet," to quote two of the actress singer's favorite songs.

Unhappy with her marriages to singing star Eddie Fisher and the late Harry Karl, who owned a network of shoe stores, Debbie estimates they cost her $30 million. But she diligently paid off all the debts and now owns her own hotel, casino in Las Vegas.

We met her in October, shortly after the first anniversary of her new career.

I suggested she issue some new recordings but she indicated she will concentrate on hosting and entertaining crowds at her sparklingly scrubbed, 200-room hotel, formerly the Paddleeview.

Having appeared in the past at Mel Tinker theater in Branson, Mo., where they treat audiences right, she has carried over the practice of greeting the public after her concerts, signing autographs and posing for pictures with her admirers.

She says, "It's truly a thrill to be able to meet my fans from all over the world right here in my own theater," a 500-seat state-of-the-art showroom designed by her son, Todd Fisher. She adds, "When I look at him, my heart lifts and I can't help but smile and feel good."

Of her daughter, actress Carrie Fisher, who is now 38, Debbie tells of making a few mistakes as a young mother but of feeling great pride and love for both her children. "Carrie has grown up to be a wise, giving, deeply loving daughter and friend," she comments.

Carrie, who starred in the "Star Wars" films, is not shown, but models of three other characters from "Star Wars" are among the exhibits in the hotel.

Debbie, still blonde and beautiful herself, plans to open her long-planned Hollywood movie museum in the hotel building Jan. 21.

Also on display now is a young Elizabeth Taylor in her "National Velvet" costume. You may recall that, after the death of Taylor's husband, Mike Todd, in an airplane crash, neighbor Eddie Fisher consoled her so well that he left Debbie and married Elizabeth; Taylor later left him for Richard Burton.

Debbie speaks relatively kindly of Elizabeth Taylor but in her concert she did devastatingly on-target imitations of Barbara Streisand, Bette Davis, Zsa Zsa Gabor and Katherine Hepburn.

She also is expert at portraying Dr. Ruth, Edith Bunker, Marlene Dietrich and Dolly Parton.

Debbie sings many numbers, including "A medley of my hit record, Tammy."

She also shows film clips of her roles in "The Daughter of Rosie O'Grady" with Red Skelton and Fred Astaire, when she was 16 years old; "Three Little Words" at age 17 with Carlton Carpenter, in which they sang "Abba Dabba Honeymoon"; "Two Weeks With Love"; "Mr. Imperium"; and then, at 18, the classic "Singin' in the Rain," in which she starred by acting, singing and dancing with Gene Kelly and Donald O'Connor.

She appeared with Frank Sinatra in "The Tender Trap," Glenn Ford in "It Started With a Kiss," Leslie Nelson in "Tammy," Gregory Peck in the wide-screen hit, "How the West Was Won," Harvey Prentiss in "The Unsinkable Molly Brown," the film that most pleased her, and Tony Curtis in "Goodbye, Charlie."

Debbie Reynolds was featured in 32 motion pictures between 1949 and 1972, including "The Singing Nun," and also starred on Broadway in "Irene" and on the stage in Los Angeles and San Francisco in "Annie Get Your Gun."

Her first fan was Grandpa Hartman, her maternal grandfather, a railroad man and lay preacher who would place her on an El Paso, Texas, church altar to sing "This Little Light of Mine."

She moved to Burbank, Calif., when 8 years old, played baseball and the French horn in high school, and won the 1948 Miss Burbank contest in which she imitated Betty Hutton singing "My Huckleberran Run Away."

One of the judges was a talent scout and, in no time, she was in the movies, mainly for MGM. As a veteran of Hollywood's "golden era," she is well equipped to oversee the creation of North America's only museum of its kind.

She says, "I've spent a lifetime collecting motion picture memorabilia."

"Now you will be able to watch Hollywood come to life in a unique, multi-media presentation."

"There will be dramatic displays of authentic costumes and props, rare film clips, and items from favorite, Academy-Award winning films."

"From Mary Pickford to Marilyn Monroe, I've got the largest collection on earth."

Regarding her role as a "permanent and continuous, Las Vegas sold-out headliner," she comments, "I'm going to stay here and perform until I drop. I want to go on as long as the people want me."

Our endorsements

12th Congressional District: Incumbents may be out of favor across the nation, but Jerry Costello has given us no reason to put him out of office. He understands his district and makes it a point to listen. Jerry Costello in the 12th.

20th Congressional District: There shouldn't be any real contest here. Richard Durbin is the 20th.

56th State Senate District: The clerk of Madison County for many years, Evelyn Bowles was appointed earlier this year to take the late Sen. Sam Vadalabene's seat in the Illinois General Assembly. She had big shoes to fill, but she has managed admirably in her months in the Senate. We heartily endorse Evelyn Bowles in the 56th.

State Representative: When state district boundaries were redrawn a couple of years ago, Granite City was the biggest loser in the state. Sure, we have three state representatives in the Legislature now. But they have the respective interests of Alton, Belleville and East St. Louis as their primary concerns. With that in mind:

111th District: Steve Davis.
113th District: Tom Holbrook.

In Madison County:

For clerk: Debbie Salich did an excellent job managing a district office for Jerry Costello. We have no reason to believe she will do less in the County Clerk's office.

For treasurer: John Shimkus, an outstanding public servant who deserves re-election. He has significantly improved operations in the office formerly managed by his current opponent.

For sheriff: The experience of the incumbent is going to be needed to see the county through the $5.5 million expansion of its jail. For Bob Church.

Retention of judges: John DeLaurenti — yes; George Moran Jr. — yes; P.J. O'Neill — yes; Charles V. Romani Jr. — yes. Paul Riley has taken a seat on the federal bench.

Morris makes a run at incumbent Costello in 12th

By Jim Merkel
and Bonita Tillman
Staff writers

The race for U.S. Congress in the 12th District will pit Jerry Costello, a Belleville Democrat and two-term incumbent, against Republican Jan Morris of Carbondale, a newcomer to the political arena.

Morris sees too much government intervention in Americans' lives as a problem. Costello said he is willing to run on his record to be selected.

"If anyone examines my record, they'll see I have stood up to opposition from the party and the president," he said. Costello said he has worked hard to keep in touch with the district unlike other cohorts who move to Washington, and has held more than 300 town hall meetings in the communities he represents. "I'm home every weekend and I also bring home our fair share of the federal tax monies," he said. "That includes light rail, the Clark Bridge, the McKinley Bridge work, which is about to get under way, and Scott Joint Use."

A 47-year-old lawyer, Morris has emphasized the theme "Help Take Back America," in her campaign for U.S. representative.

From talking to people in the 12th District, the Carbondale resident said, "They're not very happy with what's going on in Congress right now. A lot of people are feeling left out."

Morris criticizes high taxes and the way unfunded mandates cost local tax dollars.

Morris, who has lived in the area for 37 years, was a school teacher for 10 years and served on a school board.

Although he has found some constituents generally apathetic and upset with government, Costello said residents at least know that "I've been around and we get the job done."

A Belleville resident, Costello said he plans to work hard to address the problems in the current health-care system and to change the welfare system so people are not punished when they try to work.

"On the local level, I need to go back to Congress and make sure our projects are completely funded," he said.

Morris said she is concerned about high unemployment in the district and would like to get more high-paying jobs here.

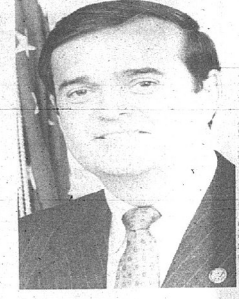

While she would like to see some kind of a health-care bill, Morris said she does not like the Clinton plan and would not want mandates requiring small businesses to pay for it. "We have the best medical system in the world. It's not perfect, but we have people from all over the world come here for treatment, and I'm pretty proud of that," she said.

Morris also said she is against legalized abortion, except when a woman's life is in danger. She especially opposes any effort to have a government health plan pay for abortions.

She also is opposed to gun control. Costello, who previously was a police officer and chairman of the St. Clair County Board, said it is important to look at the history of candidates.

"I'm just asking people of the district to not listen to political rhetoric in the last 30 days before the election. Just look at my record."

Holbrook, Clark seek 113th seat

By Bonita Tillman
Staff writer

Both candidates for state representative in the 113th Legislative District say crime is a big problem, but they differ on how they would approach it.

Republican Diana Clark and Democrat Thomas Holbrook are vying for the seat currently held by veteran State Rep. Monroe Plinn of Cahokia who is not seeking re-election in November.

Holbrook, 44, said he has a history of working to defeat crime and finding a place for offenders to be incarcerated because he knows residents are most concerned about crime.

He also co-founded CARE, Citizens Against Releasing Early, a group which hopes to stop early release of inmates from Illinois jails. Holbrook worked to have an advisory referendum placed on the Nov. 8 ballot.

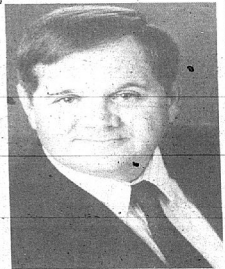

Both candidates said the law should be tougher on juvenile criminals who are committing more serious crimes. "Juvenile criminals need to be punished and their parents held responsible," Clark said.

She said prisoners often get better health care than the general public and jails no longer hold much penalty for those in trouble.

Clark, 46, also advocates privatizing Illinois child support collection so state government can get out of the business. "It is a shame that thousands of children are suffering because deadbeat parents will not pay the child support they owe," she said. "Since government cannot catch all those who are shirking their responsibility, children are the ones that suffer."

Diana Clark

Thomas Holbrook

A longtime veteran of Republican politics in St. Clair County, Clark was elected Belleville Township trustee in 1993 in a non-partisan election. A veteran of the U.S. Marine Corps, she currently works for Secretary of State George Ryan. However, she took a leave of absence to mount her campaign for state representative.

She is a member of St. Theresa's Catholic Church and she and her husband, Tom, have three children and two grandchildren.

Despite his tough stance on juvenile crime, Holbrook said he wants to deter youths by providing better education. He supports Fund Education First, a program which would dedicate half of all new state revenues to education.

A St. Clair County Board member, Holbrook cited jobs and education as other primary issues he wants to handle if elected.

He said he helped create jobs in St. Clair County by working to bring Scott Joint Use and MetroLink here and with the construction of two additions to the County Jail and one addition to the St. Clair County Detention Center.

Holbrook, an electrical maintenance worker at Rhyll Corp. in Sauget, and his wife, Molly, have one daughter. He holds a B.A. degree in social science and government from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

The candidates disagree on support of term-limit legislation. Clark said she believes there should be statutory limits to legislators' terms while Holbrook said the voters can easily limit the term of anyone they do not support by not re-electing them.

Bowles is challenged by Tanzyus

Dave Tanzyus

Evelyn Bowles

For the first time in 20 years, Evelyn Bowles has opposition. But this time, it's for a State Senate race.

Republican Dave Tanzyus of Collinsville is taking on Bowles in the 56th Senate District, which had been represented by Sam Vadalabene before his death in May.

Bowles, 73, of Edwardsville, had planned to retire after nearly 20 years as Madison County clerk, but Vadalabene encouraged her to run in the March primary, and she was appointed to fill his unexpired term in May.

Tanzyus, 27, in his first bid for elective office, has actively opposed Bowles, a popular political figure.

"This time, voters really do have a choice," he said. "There's a lot of difference between us as far as ideology goes."

Tanzyus has issued position statements and has repeatedly challenged Bowles to debate him. He said the voters don't know where she stands on the issues.

Bowles points to her record since being appointed. She co-sponsored legislation that provides annual automatic appropriations for pension funds of state and university employees and teachers and halts the diversion of pension funds to cover shortages in other budget areas.

She co-sponsored anti-crime legislation to protect battered spouses in domestic violence cases and to outlaw the use of computer networks for child pornography.

She supported welfare reform legislation that requires school-aged mothers to attend classes, to cut off additional money for those who continue to have children while on public assistance and to place a time limit on welfare.

"We need to show concern for our neighbors who need help," Bowles said. "But it shouldn't be a way of life. This measure will help them to bear some responsibility."

Shimkus and Henkhaus collide in a rematch

By Martin Richter
Staff writer

The battle for Madison County treasurer is between a man who wants to keep his job, and another who wants his old job back.

Republican incumbent John Shimkus faces a challenge from Democratic Mick Henkhaus, who held the job for 12 years before Shimkus upset him in the 1990 election.

Shimkus, 36, has been the Republican exception in a county traditionally run by Democrats. He said Monday that he is proud of improvements he has made over the last four years.

"I'm running on my record as county treasurer, and my record is very strong," the Collinsville resident said. "Henkhaus can't do to improve the efficiency of the office? He can't do it."

"We've been able to improve service at less cost," he said. Shimkus said his office has under spent the $657,000 budget it had the last year Henkhaus was in office for each of the last three years, and that it will again this year.

He said his office has been able to collect and distribute property taxes "faster than ever before."

Shimkus said he also is proud of his office's investment of county funds. He said he produced a written list of investment priorities in 1990 that stresses safety, concern and local considerations.

Henkhaus, 51, said he racked up a pretty impressive record of his own when he served as county treasurer from 1978 to 1990. The Bethalto resident was president of the Illinois Treasurer's Association in 1986.

For example, Henkhaus said he was able to shave the time it took to make tax distributions from 45 to 60 days down to about five days, by improving the department's use of data processing.

He said he won an award from the National Association of County Officials for plan to consolidate interest-earning accounts into a "jumbo" certificate of deposit. And he said he increased collections of mobile home taxes to about 85 percent from about 46 percent.

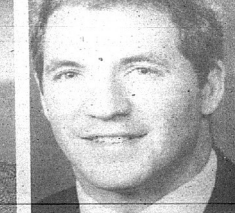

Henkhaus said that he will again allow county residents to use their credit cards to pay their property taxes if he is elected a practice he said Shimkus abolished.

He contends that Shimkus has made some risky investments with county money, investing more than $21 million in long-term derivatives. Shimkus adamantly denies that accusation.

And Henkhaus criticized Shimkus for "double dipping," as a Collinsville Township Trustee the first part of his term as treasurer. Even though he was elected to re-election in April 1993 to the township seat, Henkhaus said he should have resigned.

Ramsey, Saltich battle over county clerk office

Voters on Nov. 8 will decide whether to continue to support the Democratic Party or reject Republican blood into the Madison County Clerk's Office.

Republican candidate Bob Ramsey, a loan officer from Troy, is challenging the Madison County Democratic Party's chosen candidate, Debbie Saltich of Granite City.

Saltich, 39, who won the Democratic primary, was appointed by the County Board to serve the remainder of the unexpired term of former County Clerk Evelyn Bowles after Bowles was appointed to the state Senate.

Saltich said she believes her agenda for the office, along with her five months of experience, will help her defeat Ramsey.

"The last five months have gone real well for me and the office," said Saltich, who managed the district offices of U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello for six years before her appointment. "I think my experience in (Costello's offices) is one of my best qualifications. I had a lot of experience dealing with the public. I also dealt with a lot of agencies."

Ramsey, who was chosen to represent the GOP in the race at a party caucus in April, said he can contribute new blood and new ideas to the office.

Ramsey, 37, a loan officer of Fleet Mortgage in St. Louis, said he is concerned about the fairness of the clerk's office with Saltich at the helm.

"I'm very concerned," he said. "I have considerable doubt she can be fair. She's ingrained by the party."

Ramsey criticized Saltich's $5,100 contribution to the Democratic Party earlier this year and said that's where her loyalties lie. Saltich dismissed the contribution, saying it came from her own pocket and was meant to help with her campaign expenses.

"I have carried out the integrity of this office, and I will continue to do so," she said. "His accusations are all well and good, but I don't ask someone's party affiliation when they come to the counter for help. Have a record of being honest and fair."

Ramsey said he believes Saltich is neither qualified nor capable of running the office.

"The person counting the votes needs to have integrity," he said. "I don't believe she does."

Saltich said both Republicans and Democrats help tally votes. Ramsey said his experience in customer service and his desire to work with people will enable him to run a successful office.

Saltich said Ramsey lacks ideas. Saltich said she is in the process of automating the office and has transferred 290,000 birth records to computer files. She's also exploring additional high-technology avenues to improve office efficiency.

Supports trail rules

TO THE EDITOR:
I just read the article in the Press-Record about Peggy Greene being so upset over the new fitness trail. I personally applaud the board's decision.

I was one of many who complained to the Park Board and the police about not feeling safe on the fitness trail. On several occasions when walking the trail alone and with my husband, I was forced off the trail by boys on bicycles who then laughed as they sped away. One boy stuck out his arm as he rode past us trying to hit me.

I, too, am a taxpayer and also donated money toward this trail. Bicycles have no place on this trail. I personally have no problems with skates, but I'm sure other have horror stories about them, too.

Let this woman carry a protest sign on the trail. As long as she walks or jogs with it, I have no complaint.

Not part of the herd

TO THE EDITOR:
As you probably know by now, I recently came out for a Republican, John Shimkus, for county treasurer. The precinct committee of Nameoki Township consider me a black sheep in their "Lily White Flock." I think a person has every right to vote as he or she pleases, not just the way a few people want them to vote, otherwise, why have secret ballots. When you know a candidate as well as I know John, you'll understand why I support him.

John is an exceptional young man. Four years ago he promised to professionalize the treasurer's office. He has done that. John hired employees based upon qualifications, developed a written investment policy and returned his pay raises. He has provided better service at less.

John and his lovely wife, Karen, reside in Collinsville. They have a son, David, 21 month, and are expecting a second child in late March.

So, when election day rolls around on Nov. 8, please go to the polls and vote for the individual. That is what I am going to do by voting for John Shimkus.

SWAP really works

TO THE EDITOR:
The Madison County Sheriff's Department has done a real service to the community through the SWAP (Sheriff's Work Alternative Program). Established in 1992 by Bob Church, it has a threefold purpose:

1. to help cut down the overcrowding in the county jail;

2. to supply needed work for community projects;

3. to give constructive work as a substitute for incarceration. It also helps improve the self image of those involved, and may prepare them for future employment.

Here is an example of how well it is working: The Watershed Nature Center recently acquired access to abandoned railroad tracks near the Center through a "beautification lease" with the Norfolk and Southern Railroad. A great deal of work needed to be done in removing ties and clearing a trail for hiking and observation. The SWAP team, a group of up to ten men or women, who are non-violent offenders, and who live at home and report in daily, undertook this task under the supervision of coordinator Steve Huch and job supervisor Terry Davis.

The work has resulted in a trail that the community can be proud of, and can use for years to come.

SWAP assignments include such projects as work in cemeteries, clearing of trash areas, trail clearing, and other jobs that are acceptable to the SWAP supervisors, and which would not be contracted out to employers. Demand for their services has steadily increased, and their success is having a positive impact on our area.

Certainly, the concept of SWAP brings credit to the Sheriff's Department and benefits to all.

Understand the issues

TO THE EDITOR:
Earlier this year, the candidates for the 11th Representative District were mailed questionnaires on 58 labor issues. Steve Davis returned his questionnaire with 58 correct answers.

Ted Prehn did not return his questionnaire at all. In an attempt to correct this situation, another questionnaire was sent in the event there was an oversight. Personally asked Ted, he hadn't returned the questionnaire. His response was that he didn't understand all of the issues. Ted also stated he wanted some help on this.

I again personally offered to review this questionnaire with him and give him assistance if necessary to attempt to at least acquaint him with the issues. Ted never responded, and, he clearly had the opportunity.

Steve Davis, on the other hand, has stated that he intends to be "Labor's voice in Springfield." I don't know if that constitutes "special interest" or not.

what I do know that it constitutes someone that I will support. It is clear to me that anyone who has to work for a living needs a friend in the Legislature. Steve Davis is that friend. Ted Prehn may understand the issues, but he appears to lack even basic allegiance to much of anything. It is amazing that he does not share that he is running as a Republican on his signs. Perhaps he plans to run as a Democrat later. I'll give him the benefit of the doubt; just maybe he doesn't understand the issue.

Be a nosy neighbor

TO THE EDITOR:
As president of the Oaklawn Terrace Association, I would like to thank our Seventh Ward Alderwoman Kim Affolter for her help in getting the street department to start repairing our streets in Oaklawn.

For years our association has asked for help in repairing our streets and curbs. The residents of the Seventh Ward pay more real estate taxes than any of the other wards. It is only fair that some of that money come back to the Seventh Ward in the form of maintenance.

If any of the neighborhoods are having problems with crime here is what Oaklawn does: We have a slogan, "We Are Nosy Neighbors". If you know your neighbor is not home and you see a car in their driveway or see strangers around the house, call 911. You would be surprised how fast the cops get the message.

Board of Education wants public input

The Illinois State Board of Education is holding a series of evening regional budget hearings and dialogues to obtain input from the public on how to focus funding to improve our schools.

Locally, a regional hearing will be held Wednesday, Nov. 9, in the Sangamon Room at the Collinsville Holiday Inn, 1000 Eastport.

The critical question to be addressed at these meetings is, "How should state funding for elementary and secondary school be allocated in fiscal 1996 and beyond?"

State Board members and staff hope to hear innovative ideas on how state funding can be used to make our schools better, as well as opinions about currently funded programs.

Beginning at 7 p.m., participants will engage in an informal dialogue about budget issues. A formal hearing will follow at 8 p.m. for those who wish to present testimony.

This departure from the Board's traditional budget development procedure is intended to emphasize that "business as usual" will not allow Illinois schools to meet public demands for excellence in education.

Interested parties — educators, parents, citizens, and legislators — are encouraged to attend the hearing. For those presenting testimony at the hearing, please provide three copies of your testimony to attend the hearing. If you are unable to attend, you may submit written comments to Robert Blazis, Illinois State Board of Education, 100 North First Street, Springfield, Ill. 62777, by Nov. 14.

For more information, call 217-782-5729.

Briefly

Illinois Power is inviting fifth and sixth graders enrolled in the statewide Drug Abuse Resistance Education program to tell Illinois Gov. Jim Edgar why it's important to stay drug free.

The 1994-95 "Letter to the Governor" contest sponsored by IP and the Illinois State Police is intended to reinforce lessons learned from law enforcement officers who teach DARE's anti-drug and anti-violence messages.

Letter contest entries will be accepted from Nov. 7 through Dec. 7 for those taking first-semester DARE courses and March 1 through March 24, 1995, for second semester courses. Letters must be original work of the student, no more than two pages long (one side only) and written in ink or typed. English translations must accompany foreign language entries.

Century 21 honors agents

Top offices and agents were honored by Century 21 South Central States Inc. during its 1994 divisional conference in St. Louis Oct. 19 through the 21. said Bob McKinnon, a divisional president.

Agent Debbie Sander with Century 21 Royce Realty was among those receiving distinctions. Sander was recognized among the top five percent of the more than 1,500 Century 21 sales associates in the St. Louis region based on units closed through September 1994.

"Our never-ending goal is to provide quality service to both our franchisees and our clients and customers," said McKinnon. "We are proud of these offices and agents who are essential to the success of the Century 21 organization."

Along with the awards ceremonies, the more than 400 Century 21 real estate brokers, managers, sales associates and support people who attended the conference also participated in informational meetings relating to the real estate industry and the Century 21 organization. John Royce, owner of Century 21 Royce Realty, and Cindy Sadler also attended.

Century 21 Royce Realty, located at 2862 Madison Ave., is one of approximately 122 Century 21 offices in the St. Louis region of Century 21 South Central States Inc. There are approximately 560 Century 21 offices in the seven-state division.

Century 21 Real Estate Corporation is the world's largest real estate franchise organization and a subsidiary of Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

Social Security, SSI benefits to increase 2.8 percent

By Bill Hunot
Social Security Administration

There is some good news for Social Security beneficiaries: There soon will be a little extra in your checks.

Social Security and Supplemental Security Income (SSI) benefits will increase 2.8 percent beginning with the payments Social Security beneficiaries receive Jan. 3 and SSI recipients receive Dec. 30.

The average retired worker will receive a $19 per month raise — from $679 to $698. That raise will be offset partially by an increase in Medicare premiums, from $41.10 to $46.10 per month.

The maximum SSI monthly payment to individuals will increase from $446 to $458. The maximum SSI payment for a couple will rise from $669 to $687.

Q. I am a school teacher who has been working under the State Teachers' Retirement System instead of Social Security. Over the years, I have earned 36 quarters of coverage under Social Security by teaching summer school and giving private music lessons. How much do I have to earn to get those last four quarters to qualify for Social Security?

A. The amount you must earn to get work credits (formerly known as quarters of coverage) changes every year. In 1994, you can get one credit for every $920 you earn in work that is covered by Social Security. You can get all four credits possible for 1994 by earning $2,480. Don't worry about earning money in each calendar quarter; those rules are obsolete.

You can earn four credits even if all your earnings are in one quarter of the year.

We Know How Special She is to You... That's Why We Take Special Care of Her...

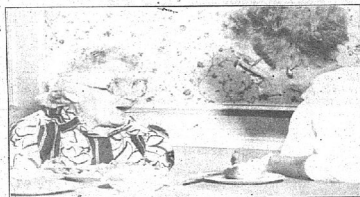

We know how she took care of you. How she cooked your meals, cleaned your room and took time to make your world a happy place.

That is why we give her more than extra special care. We take the time to chat about the small things...and celebrate the special things too.

Because we know, like you do...

She really is a very special person!

THE LAW AND YOU

By RICK REED
Attorney At Law

During a marriage, a couple will frequently incur bills for which they are jointly liable. In some cases, the original credit application was in both names. In other instances, one spouse may have made the purchase, but the other is equally responsible because of the Family Expense Statute in Illinois. This law provides that if one spouse purchases an item for the use of the family, both husband and wife are liable for the debt.

The question usually arises as to what happens to these joint obligations in the event of a divorce. The judgment of dissolution will normally provide that one or the other spouse is to pay the outstanding bills. What happens in the event the party ordered to pay in the divorce decree is unable to fulfill his obligation? Can the ex-husband or ex-wife, who thought they were "off the hook," still be looked to to satisfy the debt?

In one recent case, a husband and wife jointly incurred a substantial debt on credit cards, two car notes, and an unsecured loan in the amount of $15,000. When the couple decided to get divorced, the husband was ordered to pay these outstanding obligations.

After the divorce, the ex-husband fell on hard times. He lost his job and was unable to pay the debts. The creditors decided to pursue the former wife, and she found herself back in court, having been sued by all the creditors. She argued to the judge that she should not be held responsible since the divorce decree ordered her ex-husband to pay these bills. The judge pointed out to her that the terms of the divorce were not binding on the original creditors, and that they could still pursue her.

In most cases, a creditor will not rewrite a note to remove the spouse's name. The creditor would rather have two responsible parties to pursue if necessary, rather than one. The ex-wife is already in a case such as this is because her husband into court and ordered to pay for the indebtedness. She was forced to pay it, but she thought that this will not happen. The ex-husband is stuck with the bills she thought she did not owe.

Salvation Army offers holiday aid

The Salvation Army will be taking applications for Christmas baskets for those in need of assistance Monday through Friday, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., beginning Nov. 7 and concluding Nov. 18.

The church and school were important institutions for the local Slovak and Czech immigrants, especially the Lukaskas, Cernuska, and Rasin families. These families were joined when their children, Rasin and Emily Cernuska married in 1947.

When the decision to close and demolish the church was made in 1960, history came full circle when August Rasin helped remove the bell from the bell tower. Originally, the bell had been installed by his father, James, and Charles Lukaskas' father, John. From 1960 to 1994, the bell remained with the Rasin and Lukaskas families.

The bell, to be mounted on the exterior of the Communications Building, and the carillon were donated to SIUE by Charles and Emily (Cernuska) Lukaskas and August and Emily (Cernuska) Rasin in honor of their parents, Slovak and Czech immigrants, and the Slavic and East-European friends of SIUE.

The bell, to be mounted on the exterior of the Communications Building, and the carillon were donated to SIUE by Charles and Emily (Cernuska) Lukaskas and August and Emily (Cernuska) Rasin in honor of their parents, Slovak and Czech immigrants, and the Slavic and East-European friends of SIUE.

The church and school were important institutions for the local Slovak and Czech immigrants, especially the Lukaskas, Cernuska, and Rasin families. These families were joined when their children, Rasin and Emily Cernuska married in 1947.

When the decision to close and demolish the church was made in 1960, history came full circle when August Rasin helped remove the bell from the bell tower. Originally, the bell had been installed by his father, James, and Charles Lukaskas' father, John. From 1960 to 1994, the bell remained with the Rasin and Lukaskas families.

MetroLink

"Light rail isn't like buses; it's a novelty. People will go out of their way to use it. That's an element people overlook if they think it's just transportation. It's more than that."

"The system is tremendously popular with commuters on the Illinois side of the Mississippi River. The East St. Louis station is the system's busiest, with about 4,400 riders boarding the train there daily throughout the work week."

Crime has been minimal at MetroLink facilities. Durbin said his committee is considering a bill that would finance closed-circuit security systems for MetroLink station parking lots. Televised security now exists only on station platforms.

"People demand the best in security today," he said.

MetroLink riders are getting the best deal for their buck, Bi-

State officials said. Cost to ride the train is based on an honor system of sorts in which passengers pay $1 to travel up to two hours in one direction. Passengers can use the same ticket to board the train an unlimited number of times within two hours as long as the train is moving in the same direction. Another $1 ticket is needed to return the other direction.

In August, 39,750 rode MetroLink—more than three times the projected ridership of 12,000.

Leary said MetroLink's first-year success, coupled with voter approval of tax hikes in St. Clair County, St. Louis city and county and St. Charles County, Mo., bodes well for a region-wide system, especially when it comes to securing federal funding.

"Before the system started, it was all dialogue. Now, people—residents and politicians—can see it," Leary said. From the Alton Telegraph

He was assigned to MetroLink when it started operating in July 1993. He also oversees the cleaning of Bi-State's bus terminals and stops.

McCauley said he appreciates both modes of public transportation, but light rail has the brighter future.

"You get anybody to ride it and I guarantee you they'll tell you it's the best thing to happen to St. Louis in a long, long time," he said. "The next extension to Scott Air Force Base (in Belleville) will be even better. It will pick up more riders and revenue."

Editorial Saltich has worked hard to earn respect of voters

Edwardsville Entelleger

During the past five months, Democratic County Clerk Debi Saltich has learned the ins and outs of the busy county clerk's office.

With an eye to the future, she has already begun the slow process of automating the office with ideas like computerizing access to the county's birth record.

She plans more automation, making the process easier for employees of the office and making service quicker for customers.

And she plans to concentrate on registering the younger generations to vote a segment often overlooked by politicians because they may not pay property taxes or carry much influence in the communities.

Her Republican opponent, Bob Ramsey, claims to be a better candidate because of his qualifications for the job, his integrity and his political independence.

But Ramsey fails to give concrete evidence of his own better experience, integrity or political independence.

Your Quad Cities Candidate
Debbie Saltich For County Clerk
Paid For By Committee To Elect Debbie Saltich

He claims that Saltich's $5,100 contribution to the Democratic Party puts her "integrity" in question, hinting that Saltich would cater to Democrats while in office.

But when pressed on the issue Ramsey could not define integrity or make a sound case against Saltich. And he also accepted more than $4,000 from the campaign efforts, making his argument a moot point.

Ramsey also claims to have more experience in managing people, but during his career has only overseen three people in one office.

Saltich, on the other hand, coordinated the efforts of about 10 people working in several offices while she worked for U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello.

Ramsey lacks a set of clear goals for the county clerk's office, and aside from a few self-imposed character judgments, he offers few reasons to vote for him.

Saltich is the clear choice for county clerk.

For Seventy Years I've Been There For You!
Now I Need Your Help!

Dear Friends and Neighbors,

For the past seventy years I have proudly served the Granite City School District. In those seventy years some of the finest students in the country have passed through my doors. I have provided you and your children with many fond memories of your high school years. Now as I enter the twilight years of my life I must call on all of you for help in preparing me for future generations.

At my age I find myself in need of a great deal of work. My roof leaks, my windows will not stay open without some support nor are they very energy efficient. My wiring has not aged very gracefully and needs to be updated to support modern technology. In addition I would like to see my insides renovated to make better use of existing classroom space as well as to provide easier access for handicapped students and visitors. I would also like to add some new classrooms so my students will not have to share space at Coolidge Jr. High School.

On November 8th you will be asked to support a bond issue that will provide funds to make these changes. With these badly needed changes I will be able to serve future generations of the Granite City School District with pride and dignity as I have those in the past.

Supporting this bond issue will allow Granite City School District to make needed improvements

GRANITE CITY PRESS-RECORD

Warriors making 14th trip to state

By Tony Panozzo
Staff writer

Granite City's soccer team sprung loose from Springfield with a late goal by Shawn Petroski and held off the upset-minded Senators 1-0 in Tuesday's Granite City super-sectional game at Southern Illinois University-Edwardsville.

Petroski's goal, his 39th of the year, tied Greg Feigl's 17-year-old GCHS school record and propelled the Warriors to a hard-fought victory at Bob Guelker Field. The goal came with 9:14 remaining in regulation and helped the Warriors (21-3) avoid overtime against the pesky Senators (20-3-2).

THE WIN EARNED the Warriors a berth in Friday's and Saturday's state tournament at Palatine Fremd High in north suburban Chicago. Granite City will begin its quest for its 11th state title at 2:30 p.m. Friday against St. Charles in the second of four quarterfinal matches.

The state tournament appearance is Granite City's first since 1980, when the Warriors won their 10th state championship. The Warriors will be representing southern Illinois for the 14th time in the 22-year history of the tournament.

"I'm very proud of the kids and what they've accomplished to this point," Granite City coach Gene Baker said. "The kids have really worked hard."

"It was a real emotional win. I thought (Springfield) played a beautiful game. Coming in, we knew they were well-coached and because of that they're a very good team at this time of year."

GRANITE CITY DEFEATED a surprisingly tough Springfield team 1-0 to advance to the state to play, beginning Friday at Fremd High School in Palatine.

"They are a first-class program," GCHS coach Gene Baker said of the Senators. "They played very well. They shut us down in the first half, and they were marking Shawn (Petroski) very well."

But in the end it was Petroski, who notched his 39th goal of the year in the 71st minute of play, who led the Warriors to victory.

"It feels great," Petroski said. "This was the last year the seniors had a chance to get this far, and I'm just glad it finally happened. Once we got past Collinsville, I thought we had a good chance. But this team tonight really tested us."

Petroski said he knew he would be marked closely Tuesday, but he was surprised with the intensity of the two Springfield sweepers, Jeff Ambrose and Paul Phares.

"THEY NEVER DID let up, and they did a good job of keeping me from facing the goal," he said. "They are a great team, and this was a tough win."

Another senior, midfielder Matt Little, also thought the Collinsville game was a big hurdle.

"Ever since I've played, they've been the team we had to beat," Little said. "I really did beat us, but this year we got past them, and I thought we would make it to the tournament after that."

But Little admitted Springfield (See SENIORS, Page 4B)

AFTER CONTAINING Granite City in the opening half and giving the Warriors all they could handle in the closing minutes before halftime, the Senators stepped up their defense in the second half and nearly forced overtime.

Springfield entered the game without three starters and a reserve player, who were all serving suspensions after drawing red cards during the Senators' two games at the Chatham Glenwood Sectional. But the Senators held their own against the Warriors as all-state goalkeeper Rob Fulcher faced just two shots in the first half.

"We were nervous coming in, but we settled down and played well," Springfield coach Phil Eck said. "We had a lot of untested players going tonight, but it didn't hurt us. In fact, they all played pretty well."

"I'm proud of our team and pleased with the way we played. I told the guys that we had nothing to be ashamed about. We played a great team and almost beat them. There's no shame in losing 1-0 to Granite City."

Jon Reader of the Warriors is held aloft by Corey Kessler as the Warriors celebrate going to state after Tuesday's 1-0 win over Springfield.

Granite City's high-powered attack in the first half and employed two sweeper backs, Jeff Ambrose and Paul Phares, to limit Petroski's scoring chances. The Warriors regrouped at halftime and began pressuring

Springfield's end midway through the second half. Granite City picked up some added momentum with 20:58 to play when Phares received a red card after an altercation with Matt Wilson just outside the penalty area. Phares threw a punch during the confrontation, and the Senators were forced to play the rest of the match one player short.

Petroski, who had sent a 25-yard kick over the net several minutes earlier on a restart opportunity, got a second chance with just under 10 minutes to play with the Senators pushing players toward Granite City's end.

Mike Bristol...shot in goal

THE WARRIORS began a transition play by clearing out to the left sideline, and Jim Stephens beat a defender to a free ball and kicked it ahead to Petroski. With one defender to beat, Petroski took the ball from 25 yards out and came in on Pulcher before knocking in an easy 10-yard shot to the far corner of the net.

Petroski seemed to have more room to work with after Phares left the game. Stephens keyed the breakthrough by outracing a defender to the ball, and he recorded an assist on the goal.

"He did a great job," Baker (See GAME, Page 4B)

Record-tying goal Petroski's biggest; or at least to date

By Tony Panozzo
Staff writer

As Shawn Petroski broke toward the net with a breakaway late in Tuesday's super-sectional game against Springfield, he was about to make history. But he kept his mind on the present.

PETROSKI, WHO SCORED the winning goal in the Warriors' 1-0 victory at Bob Guelker Field in Edwardsville, tied a Granite City High record set by Greg Feigl in 1977 with his 39th goal of the season. The senior striker could break the record with a goal in the Warriors' next game, Friday against St. Charles in the quarterfinals of the state tournament in Palatine.

But Petroski said the record was the furthest thing from his mind. The Warriors were locked in a scoreless battle with Springfield, and Petroski's breakthrough was his first true scoring chance of the contest.

As usual, Petroski delivered. The goal, which came with 9:14 to play, was his 11th in five postseason games. Petroski, who has been chasing Feigl's record for the past two weeks, spent much of the game being hounded by Springfield sweeper backs Jeff Ambrose and Paul Phares.

PHARES RECEIVED A red card and left the game with

St. Charles gives Warriors rugged test in quarterfinals

By Tony Panozzo
Staff writer

The Granite City High soccer team will get a quick idea of what it will take to win its 11th, state title when the Warriors meet St. Charles at 2:30 p.m. Friday in the state quarterfinals at Fremd High School in Palatine.

St. Charles improved to 24-2 after defeating Waubesa Valley 4-3 in overtime Tuesday for the Willowbrook Super-Sectional title. The Saints have been ranked No. 1 in the Chicago area for most of the season.

THE FIGHTING SAINTS, led by fourth-year coach Paul Keenan, lost to Collinsville in the 1991 state title game. St. Charles has failed to reach the state tournament the past two years and is still gunning for its first state title.

Keenan said he considers the Fighting Saints and the Warriors (21-3) the teams to beat at the tournament unfolds this weekend.

"There are some good teams in there, but this could be the best game of the round," Keenan said. "I really think the winner could win it all."

It should be a good game. We're looking forward to it. We didn't get out of sectionals the past two years and we've had a real good year. We've played a very tough schedule. The Fighting Saints have won 24 of 25 games after dropping their season opener 2-1 to Batavia. St. Charles' other loss came against Waubesa Valley. The Fighting Saints avenged a 2-1 loss to the Warriors with Tuesday's wild overtime victory.

RYAN LINDGREN scored 2:38 into the first overtime period to lift St. Charles, which defeated Glenbard North 1-0 in double overtime to win the Addison Trail Sectional.

The Fighting Saints have a strong group of seniors that

Fremd hosting state once again

The Granite City soccer team will return to familiar territory this weekend when it travels to Palatine Fremd High School for the state tournament.

The tournament is being held at Fremd for the first time since 1989, the year the Warriors captured their ninth state title. Granite City defeated three straight teams, including Glenbrook North, for the championship.

The 1993 state tournament

marked the end of its four-year stay at Fremd.

The tournament has returned to Fremd after being held at Maine South and Chicago Kelly will kick off this year's tournament at 12:30 p.m. Friday, and the Warriors will meet St. Charles at 2:30 p.m. in the second game of the day.

The quarterfinal winners will meet in the semifinals Saturday. The state championship game is at 7 p.m. Saturday.

To get to Fremd, take I-55 north to the Chicago suburbs and follow to I-355 north. Stay on I-355 as it turns into Illinois Route 68. Take Illinois 53 to the Euclid West exit.

On Euclid, turn right at Quentin Road, the third stoplight. Fremd is located 35 blocks north of Euclid at 1000 South Quentin Road.

Class of '44 has reunion

Granite City High School classes of 1944 held their 50th reunion Friday, Sept. 16, at the Collinsville Holiday Inn. There were 148 in attendance.

Prizes were awarded for: First response, Dorothy (Raub) Castleman; last response, Lester Miller; traveled farthest, Norman Wingter Gerkin and Ruth (Evans) King; newest grandchild, John and Olga (Paveletic) Mink, twin girls; newest great-grandchild, Carl and May (Boyd) Ebling; and longest married, Gene and Doris Ross. Music was provided by David Dew of Night Magic Entertainment.

Classmate Fred Poterson Ragsdale wrote a book titled "The Contract Tree" with illustrations by Richard Depigian. Fred donated some copies to be sold and said to give the proceeds to the preservation and restoration fund for Granite City High School.

Class members enjoyed food, music and fellowship, and voted to have a reunion in about 2½ years.

On Saturday, Sept. 17, 41 attended a buffet breakfast. The class reunion committee consisted of Kay Greene, Betty Williams, Mary and Ralph Elliott, Gene Ross, Jo Hulsey, Terry Pitman, Millie Chandler, Esther Suva, John Boyer, Lucille Sackett and Lucille Caban.

Salvation Army comes calling

Salvation Army visit — Residents of Colonial Care Center were treated like royalty by the Home League of the Salvation Army. The residents received the organization's magazine "War Cry", a Halloween gift and cupcakes. Also bingo was enjoyed by all. During their visit the Salvation Army was presented with several yarn dogs made and donated by the residents of Colonial Care Center. These dogs will be given out during the Christmas holidays to children in the area. Above, the ladies responsible for making the dogs, are, seated from left, Mary Veizer, Betty Reynolds and Alice Deatherage. Standing behind them are the members of the Home League of the Salvation Army.

Sarah Group holds meeting

Sarah Group from Central Christian Church met at the home of Rudy Lelik. In the absence of Jo Stephens, leader, Marge Kacera led the business meeting.

Names were taken of ladies who plan to attend Protestant Welfare's annual banquet in November. Reservations were made for the "All Church Christmas Party" for Dec. 15 at Jerry's Cafeteria.

Helen Stumpe, president of Church Women United, reminded the group that World Community Day will be Nov. 4 at Niedringhaus United Methodist Church. This is a service celebrated by women worldwide. She also announced the annual Christmas party will be Dec. 2 at her home church, Central Christian Church. This will be a potluck dinner with the ladies bringing a white elephant gift to be sold. This helps Christian Women United to meet its budget. All ladies in the Quad-City area are invited to attend this event.

The next meeting will be Nov. 17 at Doris Pekarik's home.

Re: Non-Partisan Judicial Election November 8, 1994

Dear Voter:

I am a Circuit Judge running for retention on November 8, 1994 on the Non-Partisan ballot. I am asking for you to vote YES for me on November 8, 1994 (PUNCH #161).

I have served as a Circuit Judge for 17 years in Madison and Bond counties. My goal has always been to approach each case with care and concern, and to treat litigants, witnesses, jurors, and lawyers with respect.

The two chief law enforcement officers of Madison County, namely Sheriff Bob Churchich and State's Attorney Bill Haine, the Madison County Bar Association, and the Alton-Wood River Bar Association have endorsed me for retention along with fellow judges Paul Riley, John DeLaurenti, P.J. O'Neill, and Charles Romani.

A recent poll of the jurors who have served in cases where I presided reflect that 99% believe that I display integrity and honesty on the bench and 100% believe that I display knowledge of the law. (See the survey results below.)

If retained as Circuit Judge, I will continue to treat all parties with dignity and respect, and provide equal protection under the law to all who appear before me.

Sincerely,

George J. Moran, Jr.

Club visits nursing home — The Cloverview Garden Club recently made a presentation to residents at Colonial Care Center. The residents received interesting facts about plants, while they enjoyed refreshments. Plants as attendance prizes were given to three residents. Winners were Mary Veizer, Alice Deatherage and Agnes Garin. In top photo Lucille Johnson, center, vice-president of the Cloverview Garden Club, shows a Silver Dollar Plant to residents. Ellen Dunham, left, and Mary Moore, right. In bottom photo, resident Mary Veizer, seated, receives her prize from Margie O'Neill, Cloverview Garden Club Horticulture committee chairperson.

Older homes have that special charm

By Barbara Moyer Correspondent

A historic circa-1670 saltbox with chestnut beams and wood paneling, a walk-in fireplace with a beehive oven and a beautiful site: Who could resist such a delightful property? Not Ed and Claire Orenstein, who fell in love with the house and its setting at first sight. For Claire Orenstein, living in a very old house feels like the most natural thing in the world.

"I could never live in a brand new house," she says. "My parents' house in England is 550 years old."

The couple bought the house in Fairfield County, Conn., even though it was too small for their needs. They remodeled extensively, retaining the charm while adding additional rooms and modern amenities such as a new kitchen.

"This was an old house, an architect in Southport, Conn. The existing house was literally museum quality, so there was never any question about messing around with it," Patterson suggested building an addition in a style compatible with the house and the detached gambrel-roofed garage. Since the garage looks like a barn typical of the 1820s, he designed a gambrel-roof addition of about 1,500 square feet.

The new stone building is attached to the garage by a breezeway and stands in the space formerly occupied by a small structure that had once housed a kitchen. The stone for the new building comes from the building that was taken down.

"Most old houses are small in scale, so a large addition can be out of scale and ruin the flavor of the old house," says Patterson. "In this project, the new structure is about 20 inches below the grade of the old house to keep the roof height low and yet permit rooms with fairly high ceilings of 9½ feet downstairs."

This stratagem and the low-profile gambrel roof create the illusion that the two-story addition is no more than one story.

The new building houses three bedrooms, two bathrooms, a kitchen, a breakfast area, a laundry and mud room. There's also a small playroom for the family's two children.

Although stone construction is more costly than wood-frame construction, in this case it was a good idea.

"The clients wanted it to be stone, and a building of that period could easily have been built in stone," the architect says. "The stone gives the buildings a solid, sturdy anchored look."

The old house meets the new mainly at doorways and hallways, so there is no jarring sense of moving into an entirely different space.

In the new wing, exposed post-and-beam construction, oak plank floors, wood wainscoting in the hallway and plasterboard walls are in keeping with the historic period of the saltbox.

"We took a few liberties with Mexican tile for the kitchen and modern lighting subtly mounted on ceilings and under the kitchen cabinets," the architect says. "A few old lanterns function as decorative and utilitarian lighting and set the mood."

Now that the addition is done, Claire Orenstein is in the midst of decorating, with the help of her friend, Julia Durney, a designer in Brooklyn, N.Y.

Orenstein, who grew up in England, likes English pine antiques and understated decor. She also appreciates the historic aura of this traditional American building and so is blending the two into an amalgam of English and traditional American decor with a mix of English pine and American country furniture.

A good example is the furniture in the informal dining room. A long scrubbed pine table is surrounded by rush-seated chairs. A pine table displays blue and white willow pattern dishes and serving pieces. A tall case clock in the room is English but the sort of piece that might well have belonged to an affluent Connecticut farmer in the 18th century.

Walls in the house are primarily painted white, although the Orensteins selected wallpaper for some of the smaller rooms. The color scheme emphasizes neutrals with sparks of color in each room. In the living room, for example, the accent colors will be red and gold.

This room is planned as a formal space. The antique furniture is the dominant feature. Orenstein has selected a subtly patterned cream and pale rose linen fabric and beige carpet.

Window treatments are yet to be chosen. But Orenstein is in no particular hurry to complete the decorating. This is the second home she is furnishing. The first taught her to go slow and mull over the choices before making decorating decisions.

"We are taking our time in decorating, so that five years from now we don't say, 'Oh, we made a mistake.'"

Road trip

'The Road to Wellville' is a healthily weird comedy

In the late 19th century, a rare eccentric named Dr. John Harvey Kellogg propounded his theories of nutrition and hygiene to avid followers. A fierce vegetarian, he railed against the customary American diet of red meat, thick gravies and rich desserts.

The patrons of his Battle Creek (Mich.) Sanitarium were fed granola, Bunkergin yogurt, stewed raisins, old-fashioned soups and other healthy delicacies. They also were given peanut butter and corn flakes, which Dr. Kellogg reportedly invented. (His younger brother, W.K. Kellogg, founded the cereal empire.)

THE WEIRD WORLD of Dr. Kellogg provides the basis for "The Road to Wellville," a richly textured social comedy written, directed and co-produced by Alan Parker. Zestfully acted by a talented cast headed by Anthony Hopkins, it is a dazzling feat of movie-making. Matthew Broderick and Bridget Fonda are a married couple who enroll at the sanitarium at her insistence. They occupy separate rooms, since Dr. Kellogg preaches that sex is unhealthy and irrelevant, except for baby-making. Arriving on the same train is sleepy-eyed John Cusack, who aims to start a breakfast cereal company with his aunt's money.

BRODERICK IS AT first amused and then appalled by the sanitarium's regimen of enemas, electro-shock baths and cattle-feed meals. Fonda is entranced by the place and drifts away from her husband. Cusack is led astray by a humbug, Michael Lerner, and loses his money.

Dominating all is the demonic Dr. Kellogg, an outrageously hilarious portrayal by Hopkins, hiding behind bunny-rabbit teeth, goatee and crewcut. He seems to have stored all the unused energy of his recent low-key roles and poured it into the bombastic, bullheaded messiah. The only obstacle to the doctor's crusade is his demented adopted son, an inspired creation by the protean Dana Carvey.

"THE ROAD TO WELLVILLE" gives Broderick, Fonda and Cusack a chance to show that they can handle period comedy as well as contemporary drama. The huge cast (66 speaking parts) is filled with clever caricatures: the production design by Brian Morris captures the splendor of resort living in the last century. Alan Parker handles his triple duties with skill, especially in pining down T. Coraghessan Boyle's lengthy novel. Only in the latter stages does Parker roam afield, depicting sex therapy that is gloriously untidy.

The Columbia Pictures release was also produced by Arnyman Benson and Robert T. Gelsieberg.

Horoscope

Earth hears a cosmic wake-up call as the solar eclipse in Scorpio presses Earthlings to evolve. Jetsetton outmoded ways, and adopt a progressive regime. Transforming archaic attitudes into usable energy helps you mature. Other planets hanging out in mysterious Scorpio are the moon (feelings), Venus (love), Jupiter (abundance) and Pluto (ready or not, here we grow). Make a leap.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): A planetary springboard launches you into fiscal superconductivity. Discipline spending so you keep full pockets when money action slows. A partner's dilemma demands large chunks of your time. Create more space.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Marriage and amour thrive on commitment. Be loyal through thick and thin — big romantic dividends come from a mate who feels secure in your love. A surprise job offer promises a better income in the near future.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21): A windfall is a result of saving receipts. A flirtatious co-worker wants to sample more than your smoldering gaze. Red alert — be sure this one's eligible. A clandestine affair won't be a secret for very long.

CANCER (June 22-July 22): A big gain comes through a windfall, but money could evaporate in a flash. Squirreling away surplus cash calms your nerves. Love is exotic and deep. A gift from an elder helps meet a child's needs.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): A transient romance is merely a diversion you seek commitment. A parent's advice helps you weed out false suitors and pick a love that's real. Classy clothes boost your confidence at work. Shop for sterling value in jewelry.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Nov. 3): Use self-discipline or you could blow every cent and end up broke. Profits come from doing what brings you joy. Your calendar is brimming in February. Home and family are your pride and joy in March and April. A passionate romance in June leads the way into July. Social prestige is yours in April. Your lucky numbers are 8 and 12.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): A computer error is in your favor — money or lucky information is yours for free. Media projects sail along without a hitch as long as you're vigilant. Incendiary love becomes white hot and vaporizes earlier love woes.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23): Fresh income is linked to grants and inheritances. Paying a debt lifts your morale and inspires creative work that brings more cash. Equal concessions restore alignment in a romance. An expensive purchase is worth the cost.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21): Expanding your resources permits a splurge on a rare treat. Savor the moment. Don't let a stodgy mate make you feel guilty for enjoying life. Curb your enthusiasm for job advancement — pace yourself for consistent gains.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Flights of imagination give a slow-moving project a jet assist. Quiet time alone activates a fabulous inspiration — keep a notepad handy. Fickle romance is OK if you don't want to commit anyway.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): A big bash celebrates a financial success — a windfall lets you whoop it up in style. An improved relationship with a VIP injects your chemistry with a high dose of endorphins — a lover reaps a benefit in an amorous tryst.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Shifting to a new home, school or job rinses your reputation clean and sparks a healthy new start. A dramatic shift in attitude has the same result. A lucky outcome results when you gamble on your own skill or wit.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Dormant talent surfaces when you take a class or read a stirring book. Banish fears about a job or new challenge — a friend's pep talk reminds you that you have a lot to give. Love one who respects your scruples.

Today's scary movies give author more reasons to fear

In the early days of motion pictures, people who paid to watch horror films left the theater with a good feeling. But today, an author on the history of horror films says he leaves with a bad taste in his mouth. Jonathan Crane says the almost-human monsters in "Frankenstein" and "Phantom of the Opera" have been replaced with repulsive, unfeeling characters like Jason, the hockey-mask wearing villain in the "Friday the 13th" series.

In the early days of cinema, the monsters were shown to have a human side, making them sympathetic and almost lovable. Crane says today's villains are dehumanized killers who lack any redeeming qualities.

"The most obvious change is the negative tone of contemporary horror films," said Crane, a professor of communications studies at the University of North Carolina-Charlotte.

Crane's book, "Terror and Everyday Life: Singular Moments in the History of the Horror Film," chronicles the evolution — or de-evolution — of horror films.

Crane is teaching a course this semester on the history of horror in American culture. Students have read the works of Edgar Allan Poe and Stephen King and watched such flicks as "Frankenstein," "Them!" and "Friday the 13th."

Crane also sees a difference in the heroes of today's action movies. They don't simply defeat the villain: they torture and maim, much to the delight of audiences.

"Look at Steven Seagal, for instance," he said. "He has to lift, spin and mutilate his adversaries. It is no longer enough for the hero to simply triumph. The hero must do that to the bad guys the same thing that the slasher does to innocent victims."

Contemporary films also fail to give the audience any faith in people like themselves, who are struggling to be victorious over a terrible foe.

"In the classic horror films of the 1950s, the community faced a menace," he said. "At first they would be taken back before finding the power in themselves to bond together to defeat the menace."

"Now we simply fail," Crane said. "Authority figures are totally absent. The stories are ones without hope."

According to Crane, horror films date back to the origins of cinema. Thomas Edison made a "Frankenstein" movie in 1916 and early films depict carnivorous vampires.

"We're at a lull right now," he said. "Contemporary horror films are a model for violence in mainstream films like 'Pulp Fiction,' 'Natural Born Killers' and 'Silence of the Lambs.'"

Crane said he realized how much the current crop of horror films have become a part of the culture when he watched the post-game interviews after the NFL's Buffalo Bills had lost yet another Super Bowl.

"Bills linebacker Darryl Talley compared the Bills to Jason, saying the Bills never die and they'll always come back," he said. "Everybody knew what he meant."
